

Student Feedback Management Procedure

Intent

To deliver a transparent and consistent approach to the handling and monitoring of student feedback across the Singapore campus of James Cook University.

This Procedure supports the Student Feedback Management Policy to promote and underpin our commitment to transparent, fair, and timely resolution of student feedback.

Scope

This Procedure applies to feedback considered under the Student Feedback Management Policy. This Procedure applies to all students of the Singapore campus of James Cook University (also described as JCU Singapore or the University).

This Procedure does not apply in the following instances, which fall within the scope of other JCU Singapore policies or procedures:

- A minor/serious offence that contravenes the Student Code of Conduct or the law
- An allegation of bullying, discrimination, harassment, or sexual misconduct
- Allegations of fraudulent behaviour or alleged corruption

If the above are observed, the Dignity Policy- Policy against Bullying Discrimination Harassment and Sexual Misconduct shall apply. All reports of student misconduct must be done formally, in accordance with the Student Misconduct Procedure (Non-Academic) by sending an email to the Manager, Student Feedback.

JCU Singapore will endeavour to resolve any issues through informal processes of discussion and arbitration between the student and relevant students, staff, and/or management. The University expects staff to fulfill their professional duty to address students' or parents' concerns and act conscientiously when dealing with feedback.

JCU Singapore will handle all feedback promptly without prejudice or bias and at all times by being honest and impartial in dealing with those providing their feedback to the University. The principles of natural justice and procedural fairness will apply.

Definitions

Contributor A current student of JCU Singapore who makes feedback.

Working Day University working day means a day other than Saturday or Sunday, or a Public Holiday.

Procedural Fairness is concerned with the procedures used by a decision-maker, rather than the decision reached. It requires fair and transparent processes when making a decision, which includes:

- The right to be heard;
- The right to be treated without bias;
- A decision based on evidence.

Feedback This is an opinion or comment, either positive or negative. Feedback can be categorized into:

- Suggestions/Compliments
- Informal Feedback
- Formal Feedback

Suggestions/Compliments JCU welcomes feedback and perspectives about your experiences as a student. We want to hear from you when something has particularly impressed you, or if you have a suggestion for improvement to our facilities or services.

Informal Feedback JCU encourages you to resolve any concern with the most relevant person, directly, through respectful, informal discussion. There are many benefits in trying to resolve your feedback informally: Informal feedback resolution is usually quicker and simpler. You have an opportunity to gain further understanding of the situation, and this in itself may resolve your concerns. This informal method of resolution allows you to explore options about how to resolve a disagreement or feedback without involving extra people or using a more formal process. If the issues raised in your feedback affect many students, resolving your concerns quickly and informally may benefit others in the JCU community. If you have exhausted all informal avenues to address your concern and you remain dissatisfied, you can consider submitting formal feedback.

Formal Feedback If your informal feedback cannot be resolved as outlined above, you may submit formal feedback. The formal feedback statement must include, where relevant, the following details:

- The name of the person (or University Unit) about whom the formal feedback is made;
- A description of the events that have occurred, including efforts made to informally resolve the formal feedback;
- The basis for the formal feedback;
- The name and contact details of any witness or supporting party;
- The outcome the contributor seeks.

For details on how to manage Formal Feedback, please refer to the Student Feedback Management Procedure and Flowchart below.
